

The Message

Back to the Original

In the beginning, there was a perfect design.

God created mankind in His image. We were not created by accident, but as His masterpiece. Humanity was created to live in fellowship with God, to know His love, and to reflect His glory. We were given abilities, creativity, a free will, faith, and a deep longing for a living relationship with our Creator.

Everything was designed around a life with God.

But this original design was lost from sight. Distrust, separation, and the consequences of sin introduced something into creation that was never part of God's intention for everybody. The image was not destroyed, but it became hidden. Humanity lost access to the life for which it had originally been created.

Yet God never abandoned His plan.

What seemed lost, He desired to restore.

That is why Jesus Christ came. He came not only to forgive sin, but to reopen the way back. Through His life, His death, and His resurrection, the door was opened again to the life God had intended from the very beginning.

Jesus invites us to return to what we were originally meant to be. Not to a better version of our old life, but to the life that came from the heart of God. Not a better old life but a new life. To His love. To His presence. To His purpose.

When we say yes to Jesus, this journey of restoration begins. The Holy Spirit reshapes us and reveals more and more of God's original design. Step by step, what God placed within humanity from the beginning becomes visible again.

This song tells the story of that hope.

God's original plan has not been lost. The masterpiece can be seen again. The door is open. Through Jesus Christ, the way back is free.

Back to the life that God always intended to share with us.
